It authorizes $9 billion dollars in general obligation bonds for new construction and modernization of K-to-12 public school facilities, charter schools and vocational education facilities, and California Community Colleges facilities. The fiscal impact is state costs of about $17.6 billion dollars to pay off both the principal of $9 billion dollars and interest of $8.6 billion dollars on the bonds with payments of about $500 million dollars per year for 35 years. If the election were held today, would you vote yes or no on Proposition 51?

The fiscal impacts are increased state revenues of $4 to $9 billion dollars annually from 2019 through 2030—depending on the economy and stock market—and increased funding for schools, community colleges, health care for low-income people, budget reserves, and debt payments. The fiscal impacts are additional net state revenue of $1 to $1.4 billion dollars in the next fiscal year, with potentially lower revenues in future years. This revenue would be used primarily to augment spending on health care for low-income Californians. If the election were held today, would you vote yes or no on Proposition 56?

The fiscal impacts are additional tax revenues ranging from high hundreds of millions of dollars to over $1 billion dollars annually, mostly dedicated to specific purposes and reduced criminal justice costs of tens of millions of dollars annually.
